

HEARTS AROUND HARTZ

SMALL TOWN, BIG HEARTS

HEART #16

ARTIST: LISA HOFFMAN

Artist's Inspiration:

“A push-pin is generally used to fasten notes to a board. Choosing push-pins for the heart symbolized for me the space to leave messages and at the same time the care needed not to cause pain. Little did I know when I chose to submit PopDot PushPin Heart for this project just how poignant it would be in 2020: so much pain in the world and the need for more heart. The PopDot series explores themes of culture, environment, and influences of our designed world. I work with bold familiar icons in saturated colors to draw viewer's attention. The designs are placed on a background of exaggerated dots bridging art and design processes of the past with technology of now. Recontextualizing objects in this way allows for the addition of subtle messages that I hope inspire thought, though I am just as pleased if the work simply invites a smile. I believe strongly in accessibility of art for all in both placement of the work and content.”
