Intaglio portraits by Mauricio Lasansky (1914 - 2012) inspired My Best Friend Series which I first created when I was studying intaglio/etching printmaking at Cal State Hayward. I was drawn to the velvety richness of the loose black inked carved lines and the vivid expression in the eyes. I tried to capture those qualities in My Best Friend, Julie, and more recently combined printmaking and textile mixed media techniques for A Little Bird Told Me So. On my website, you can see these pieces as well as my textiles inspired by Gustav Klimt and [other examples of my] art that have been in gallery shows throughout the United States.
